Belararox's Non-Executive Chairman, Neil Warburton, said: "We are thrilled with the strong level of support received by our now completed equity raising. It provides us with the funds needed to materially progress the next stage of our exploration program, which will see us drill a number of high priority targets at Belara and Native Bee. This work is expected to be a precursor to other exploration activities that will gradually lay the groundwork for conversion of Inferred Resources at this exciting project into Indicated Resources. And all this in a relatively small part of the greater Belara project that is highly prospective for a number of in-demand minerals. We look forward to updating the market on further progress in our development journey over the months ahead, starting with the initial Inferred Resource for the Belara Project due for release in late October."

Ends.
